Board Presses Action On School Fire Escapes

School children at the Washington school were assured adequate fire protection last night as the school board voted unanimously for immediate action on the installation of two morning, he insisted that he had fire escapes on the building.

The action came at a meeting of the school board in the administration building last night when First Aid Crew Ralph P. Holloway, secretary announced that plans calling for the two fire escapes had been approved Saves Worker by the Department of Labor and Industry in Harrisburg.

The board voted to declare the installation of the escapes an emergency measure and registered letters asking for bids on their construction will be mailed to various firms today. A condition for approval of any bid is that construction must be completed within 20 days. The bids will be opened at noon on Aug. 14.

Fire escapes for the Washington school were recommended by Fire Chief Richard E Lindauer following his inspection of Pottstown schools earlier this year. In voting that the issue be declared an emergency last night, Leonard A Hiltwine, board member, asserted:

"The State is at fault in making ness. us wait so long to get this approved.' Blueprints for the construction of the fire escapes call for one escape at each end of the building one opening onto Penn street and the other into Walnut street through the two classrooms at each end of the stairways

The board approved the appointment of three new teachers to replace those who resigned at the end of last term and the appointment of a school dentist and medical inspector.

Why not save up for some "sunny days" too?

 Most folks think of savings as something you set aside for rainy day emergencies.

But there are plenty of "sunny day" occasions to save for too!

For instance, that new home you want to own some day ... that trip abroad you plan to take ... that college education you want to give your youngsters-"sunny day" savings will help get you all these.

But how soon can you pile up those "sunny day" dollars? Lots sooner than you think-if you save by buying U.S. Bonds! In fact, 25 little as $3.75 invested in U.S. Bonds every week will return you as much as $2,163.45 in only ten years' time.

You can buy these Bonds either through the Payroll Savings Plan at your place of business -or if you're not eligible for the Payroll Plan, but have a checking account, through the new Bond-A-Month Plan at your local bank.

So start saving for your "sunny days" today!
